The Residence
a collection of luxuriously appointed suites & rooms
at The Park, New Delhi launched

New Delhi, January 12, 2007 : Continuing the theme of Vaastu Shastra, the element of EARTH and the city of Delhi has been used as inspiration for The Residence on the ninth and tenth floors.

Shades of brown, rust and stone provide a warm background for orange and green accents reminiscent of the colours of the capital city. Fired oak wall panels with a limed treatment suggest the aged patina of the metropolis.

To further emphasize the greenery of Delhi, a trough of live wheat grass grows across the back of the desk. Leather is used extensively, for furniture and accessories. Embossed panels and laser cut suede bedspreads bring in the floral motif indoors. Green and orange rugs and glass panels provide flashes of colour in otherwise calm spaces. Modern and traditional prints and artifacts, notably glass and ceramics by local artists and craftsmen decorate the rooms.

The rooms and suites are luxuriously appointed for relaxation and in room entertainment. The bedrooms have large LCD TVs, personal DVD players and JBL Sound Centers for docking your i-Pod. To help you continue your business communication from within your private space, there are cordless dual line phones and broadband Internet connectivity and wi-fi in the rest of the hotel.

Step into a rejuvenating experience – soak your worries in a spacious sunken white Satwario marble baths reminiscent of Japanese bathtubs. Mirror finished rain showers ensure you relax in a luxurious environment. Tune in to your favourite channels on the LCD TV embedded on the wall.

The all-luxe floor has its own private lounge The Residence Lounge is reserved only for floor guests. Marking the far end of The Lounge, is a wall with three dimensional scale model of Lutyens' Delhi. Traditional wooden "jaali" screens provide privacy between spaces. Simple modern furniture pieces are mixed with special furniture inspired by Lutyens' designs. Here traditional armchairs have been given a contemporary twist by the use of contemporary upholstery fabrics. Each window frames a stunning view of the historic city – the busy road, the 18th century observatory Jantar Mantar, the lush green gardens of the capital.

The Residence Lounge offers complementary breakfast, and a la carte' lunch and dinner. A range of teatime snacks come with a choice of favourite blended, single estate or organic teas. Complementary drinks can be enjoyed during the after work hours.

A well-stocked library of easy reads, a range of coffee table books and a selection of international newspapers, is there for you to choose from. Or take your pick from an exhaustive collection of Rock, Jazz, House, Rhythm & Blues, Classical Indian or popular contemporary music. Ask us for an i-pod loaded with music to be enjoyed in the privacy of each room.

Two computers with scanners and printers aid in business needs. Adjacent to the lounge is a private boardroom for 12 to 14 people. Suitable for private presentations and boardroom discussions, it comes fully equipped with a drop down screen and other meeting aids.

The Residence comprises 25 deluxe rooms, 7 deluxe suites, 4 presidential suites and one lounge with boardroom facility.
